

BY THE GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF GEORGIA

A PROCLAMATION

BILL OF RIGHTS DAY

- WHEREAS: George Mason, author of the Virginia Declaration of Rights of 1776 and a delegate to the 1787 Constitutional Convention in Philadelphia, refused to sign the Constitution because it lacked a bill of rights and urged Congress to approve these first ten amendments; and
- WHEREAS: James Madison later drew heavily from the Virginia Declaration of Rights when he crafted the Bill of Rights, the first ten amendments to the Constitution, which specifically limit the power of the federal government to ensure individual liberty; and
- WHEREAS: The freedom of speech, religion, and the press; the right to bear arms; the quartering of soldiers; due process of law; protection of rights to life, liberty, and property; rights of accused persons in criminal cases; rights in civil cases; excessive bails, fines and punishments forbidden; other rights kept by the people; and undelegated powers kept by the states and the people are the rights enumerated in the Bill of Rights; and
- WHEREAS: These freedoms are the cherished foundations of our free society, governed by the rule of law rather than at the behest of men; and
- WHEREAS: The Bill of Rights was ratified by three-fourths of the states by December 15, 1791. Throughout our nation's history, the Bill of Rights has served to protect and expand liberty for every American. Bill of Rights Day provides an opportunity to reflect on this treasured document that has guided our nation over the last 231 years; now
- THEREFORE: I, Brian Kemp, Governor of the State of Georgia, do hereby proclaim December 15, 2022 as BILL OF RIGHTS DAY in Georgia.

In witness thereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Seal of the Executive Department to be affixed this 27th day of October in the year of our Lord, Two Thousand and Twenty-Two.
